CELEBRATING THE AMERICAN SPIRIT

Founded by the late historian Stephen Ambrose, this institution opened its doors on June 6, 2000—the 56th anniversary of D-Day—with a mission to honor the courageous, selfless Americans who came together to defeat the Axis power more than 70 years ago.

Originally established to remember those who stormed the beaches at Normandy, the Museum was called The National D-Day Museum; but by 2004, the Museum had achieved international acclaim and was designated by Congress as America's national WWII museum. The Museum officially changed its name to The National WWII Museum in 2006 and continues to be the world's foremost institution for exploring the American Experience in World War II.

Shown on a 120-foot wide panoramic screen, Beyond All Boundaries creates an immersive experience.

Every Service. Every Campaign. Every Hero.

The newly expanded Museum includes a state-of-the-art theater and pavilions that have multiplied the size of the original facility. The pavilions cover every aspect of America's involvement in the war, creating additional capacity to reach young minds through a national center for education and research to preserve the memories of all those who fought for our freedom.

“MY HERO IS MY BROTHER. HE PAID THE SUPREME SACRIFICE AFTER BEING IN THREE INVASIONS. EVERYBODY THAT LOST SOMEONE OVER THERE, THOSE SOLDIERS SHOULD BE THEIR HEROES.”

—Walt Ehlers, Staff Sergeant, US Army, 18th Infantry Regiment, 1st Infantry Division, Medal of Honor Recipient

TEAMWORK COURAGE AND SACRIFICE

Perhaps it was your father, uncle, grandfather, or another relative who lined up outside a local military recruitment office to enlist after the “day of infamy,” or perhaps they were drafted after America plunged into war. Maybe your mother or grandmother rolled up her sleeves and went to work alongside legions of “Rosie the Riveters.”

Whatever your personal connection is to the Greatest Generation, you have an important role in preserving your family’s place in history through our Honor Roll, which features a searchable database on our interactive kiosk as well as on our Museum website, so all Americans may view and honor these names.

YOU'RE INVITED TO JOIN US...

Without the support of our dedicated Members, the Museum would not be where it is today. While the majority of our Members are from out of town, they have been inspiring, coming together to support the Museum's expansion and growth. The Museum's expanded scope means we are finally able to do full justice to the epic, historical sweep of events that reshaped our world for generations to come.

The expanded Museum is not simply a display of artifacts from World War II. As important as those are, we are doing something even greater—creating a series of engrossing multimedia exhibits allowing visitors to experience World War II as never before. With the ongoing support of WWII history enthusiasts, including such prominent Americans as Tom Brokaw, Steven Spielberg, Tom Hanks, and WWII veteran George H.W. Bush, the Museum has an exciting future.

An important part of the Museum's expansion is the Honor Roll of Charter Members, which includes the names of those who made a valuable contribution to America's victory in World War II.

THE NATIONAL
WWII MUSEUM
NEW ORLEANS

Dear Fellow American,

I am honored to invite you to join me as a Charter Member of The National WWII Museum in New Orleans.

With your support, this long overdue memorial museum will be an enduring reminder to all Americans of the price the Greatest Generation paid to secure the liberty we as Americans enjoy today.

When America was plunged into war the morning of Sunday, December 7, 1941, history hung in the balance. The forces of tyranny were on the march. Yet, with the smoke still lingering over Pearl Harbor, America united as never before. Overnight, the American people were resolved to one purpose and one purpose only: Final Victory. The entire nation came together with discipline, courage, and self-sacrifice to achieve a great victory of good over evil. Over 400,000 of our countrymen gave their lives to achieve this victory. The entire nation did its part to see their sacrifices would not be in vain.

Today, this Greatest Generation is passing into the night. Their legacy is the legacy of freedom. It is our legacy. One which we should never take for granted. That is why I ask you to support The National WWII Museum.

Thank you,

Tom Brokaw

Dr. Gordon "Nick" Mueller, President and CEO, left, with Museum founder and author/historian Stephen Ambrose

OUR STORIED HISTORY

Some may wonder why The National WWII Museum is located in New Orleans, a city known by tourists, but one not usually associated with WWII history. The Museum's history is, in fact, deeply rooted within the city of New Orleans.

New Orleans is where Andrew Higgins designed, built, and tested the landing craft used in the D-Day invasions, and the "Higgins Boat" is what President Eisenhower believed won the war for the Allies. New Orleans was the workplace of the Museum's founder, Stephen Ambrose, who spearheaded the effort to build such a museum.

Our Museum, like New Orleans, tells the story of history. I invite you to come visit us and explore the city that inspired efforts to build the Museum—and one we so fondly call home. Thank you for your patriotism and support. We look forward to seeing you soon.

—Gordon H. "Nick" Mueller, PhD, President and CEO

Thanks to our generous members, The National WWII Museum has become a dynamic educational resource serving the needs of teachers and students all across the country from grade school through the post-graduate level. The Museum uses its rich collection of artifacts, archives, and oral histories to take history beyond the pages of textbooks and place it into the hands of curious students. Teachers all across the country have turned to the Museum's Virtual Field Trips to enrich the lives of their students.

“VISITING THE MUSEUM IS AN INTIMATE, EMOTIONAL EXPERIENCE WHERE YOU LEARN WITH YOUR HEAD AND YOUR HEART. YOU ARE INSPIRED BY WHAT THIS GRAND REPUBLIC CAN ACHIEVE WHEN WE WORK TOGETHER; YOU ARE ASTONISHED BY THE PERSONAL STORIES OF PEOPLE WHO WERE THERE, TOLD IN THEIR OWN WORDS. THIS IS A PLACE THAT CELEBRATES THE AMERICAN SPIRIT—THE TEAMWORK AND COURAGE OF THE MEN AND WOMEN WHO WON WORLD WAR II.”

—Tom Hanks, Academy Award-Winning Actor, Honorary Chairman, The National WWII Museum Road to Victory Capital Campaign

EXPANSION & FUTURE GROWTH

The National WWII Museum's capital campaign, Road to Victory: A Vision for Future Generations, will allow the institution to tell the entire story of the American Experience in World War II. Already a compelling tourist attraction and national destination, the Museum is in the midst of a $370 million expansion designed to take the visitor experience to new heights. Once completed, this expansion project will quadruple the size of the original Museum, adding state-of-the-art programs and exhibits, as well as collections and conservation space.

In 2017, a comprehensive new exhibit will tell the story of the Home Front and the road to war, drawing on personal narratives, evocative artifacts, and content from the Museum's award-winning special exhibits to highlight facets of American life during the war era.

Additional stages of the Museum's expansion plan include renovation of the original Louisiana Memorial Pavilion, construction of the Hall of Democracy pavilion for academic and outreach programs and additional exhibit space, and construction of the Liberation Pavilion, focused on end-of-war and postwar experiences. To unify the six-acre campus and create a formal entry to Museum grounds, exterior improvements will include a Founder's Plaza spanning Andrew Higgins Drive and the Bollinger Canopy of Peace, which will symbolize the hope and promise unleashed by the end of WWII hostilities.
